as we see it

This will no doubt come as a shock to you gentlemen of the networks, and it's really not very nice of us to bring it up now. But—summer is coming.

Possibly you've considered this eventuality and have been making the usual elaborate plans, such as going through the old files looking for cheap panel shows. In the happy event that you haven't started the panel search yet, may we suggest, humbly, meekly, and with all due respect, that perhaps there may be some other form of program to offer viewers during the summer?

Not that we have anything against panel shows—oh heavens, no! It's just that in our abysmal ignorance of the television business, in our obviously impractical idealism, we keep hoping against hope that you fellows may come up with something new this summer. Cheap, of course, but new.

You see, gentlemen, there are a few of us out here in the sticks west of Madison Avenue who don't take a full 13-week vacation during the summer. Ten or 12 weeks, probably, but not 13. And since we are at home we watch television. We would, that is, if you'd give us something to watch besides discarded imitations of Goodson and Todman's What's My Line?

We're not bitter, mind you. We're just slightly soured on the programs you've forced into our eyeballs for the past few summers. Good shows aren't mere exceptions—they're miracles. There was Mr. Peepers. That was a summer show. And—sorry, the list ends there. Mr. Peepers, period.

We know you're busy these days worrying about color TV and haven't time to spare during business hours for mere summer programming. Maybe, though, you could think about it at lunch some day. Please?

I've Got a Secret's Secret

No sale: bow tie addicts Garry Moore, left, and Henry Morgan ignore Bill Cullen's four-in-hands.

HAVE THEY TAMED HENRY MORGAN?

IF Henry Morgan is any sort of a prophet, the unemployment problem that has plagued him for years will soon reach the acute stage.

The irreverent Mr. Morgan, with a long and valiant record of sponsor-baiting, feels that his is a losing battle. He now fears that the supply of companies willing to have their products praised with faint damns is running low. In short, he foresees another Morgan exit from TV.

This certainly would disturb the Morgan cult, a loyal but dwindling group that has delighted in Henry's spirited tilting at some of our more vulnerable advertising windmills. But then Morganites have gone through lean years with Henry before. Henry calls this his "third career," in deference to two long stretches of unemployment on his record, stemming from a certain unconventional approach Henry takes to funny business.

The only Morgan now available on a Nationwide basis is the subdued and rather unamused Henry now picking up some easy cash as a panelist on I've Got a Secret. New Yorkers can still get nightly doses of the unexpurgated Henry via a local show, Here's Morgan. On this, Henry is his irascible self, with one difference. He now rarely turns his barbed wit on the sponsor, concentrating instead on the social and political scene. This may be the forerunner of the new Morgan—Morgan the social commentator. When TV gives him the heave-ho, he figures to become a writer.

Such an event would further deplete the ranks of a vanishing type of humorist sorely needed by the industry—the satirist.

Allen's Ally

Though Henry worships Fred Allen as the funniest man on earth, he holds Fred partly responsible for the decline of satire. When Fred was riding high on radio, Stop the Music, a quiz show, was thrown up against him on a rival network and, by giving away gobs of money, drained the Allen audience. Henry's complaint is that Fred didn't fight back hard enough and since he was the satirists' spiritual leader, the rest tumbled with him.

Henry's own special flair, of course, is his needling of commercials, usually his own. When he was sponsored by Schick razors, his show featured a Shavathon that supposedly established Schick as the world's fastest shaver. He once introduced the commercial by saying, "Here's Ted Husing, the world's greatest announcer with the world's lousiest commercial." After he was dropped by Schick, he said it was because "I pushed and I pulled, but I didn't click-click."

Life Savers dropped Henry after one broadcast when he joked that the company was bilking the public by drilling holes in its products.

Elevators: First Up, Then Down

Perhaps the most tolerant sponsor of all was Mr. Jesse Adler of Adler Elevator Shoes. Henry had a glorious time scrambling the commercials: "An Adler Elevator Shoe is a meal in itself" or "Wake up your lazy liver bile with a pair of Adler Elevators." Mr. Adler, a sweet-tempered, guileless man, found that the Morgan bits WERE selling shoes, so he rarely complained, but this nettled him:

"Old Man Adler claims that Adler Elevators make you two inches taller the minute you put them on. The claim is correct — you can be two inches taller IF you can stand up in them. But what about the trousers, Adler? Do they stretch, too?"

Radio and TV have been Henry's favorite targets. Examples: "The Answer Man:" Q. Should olives be eaten with the fingers? A. No, the fingers should be eaten separately. "Movie Gossips:" Mickey Rooney will or will not make a movie next year. Remember, you heard it here first. "Giveaways:" Among the prizes for the winner will be—a long-playing record of the Minute Waltz AND six dozen tennis shoes, size twelve.

Henry's bizarre humor has disillusioned more than sponsors. Once when his wife was taking a bath a man burst into the apartment screaming, "Mrs. Morgan, come quickly, your husband has just been killed in an auto accident." Mrs. Morgan reacted like a sponsor when she found the man doing the shouting was Henry. She divorced him.

No More Gnus Was Bad News

Henry's biggest TV venture was a short-lived spoofer called The Great Talent Hunt, with such acts as a man who played "The Stars and Stripes Forever" with two wet dishrags on fresh cheesecake, a man who could play the scherzo from Tchaikovsky's Sixth Symphony by beating his cranium with soup spoons, and a little boy whose whistle could be heard only by gnus. Out of acts, the show expired.

Morgan is now relatively happy with his I've Got a Secret panel job, which he finds easy and a lot of fun. And one of these days, it just may turn out that the U. S. public will again be ripe for good, old-fashioned biting satire. And, we trust, ready to give it to us will be that kinky-haired iconoclast whose hopeful introduction always is "Hello anybody, here's Morgan."—Bob Cunniff

SOUTH OF THE BORDER

TELEVISION IS GOING STRONG— DOWN MEXICO WAY

MEXICAN television, a little over three years old, is developing a programming style essentially its own for the Republic's estimated 65,000 receivers, 90 percent of which are located in the Mexico City area.

While the U.S. influence is apparent, the majority of shows draw heavily on Mexican themes—history, folklore, music and special brands of theater (tear-jerkers) and humor (bawdy).

Even remote control offerings make television entertainment definitely national in character—bullfights every Sunday; ballets and several operas based on Indian themes; and the special type of mayhem called "lucha libre," or free-style wrestling matches.

Cockfight adds zest to Mexican musical, but shows feature Howdy Doody too.

However, along the border, where Mexicans all speak English, viewers prefer Bob Hope, Fred Allen and other top U.S. comics to the still unpolished programs offered by Matamoros and Tijuana television stations. U.S. musical shows, dramas, quizzes, give-aways, baseball, football and boxing are tuned in on Mexican sets.

Mexico City is the hub of present telecasting activity, with three major studios operating and a fourth scheduled for later this year. Telecasting time ranges from 4 to 8 hours weekdays, with XH-TV stepping this up to 14 hours on Sundays. Inaugurated Sept 1, 1950, this is Mexico's first commercial television station. It is owned by the O'Farrill interests.

Romulo O'Farrill, Jr., XH-TV manager, dreams of "international" TV, with programs relayed to Mexican viewers from all over the world, and Mexican shows transmitted to U.S. networks. But, for the moment, Mexican television has few U.S. shows.

In drama, XH-TV has been presenting Strange Adventure and Files of Jeffery Jones series, with Spanish subtitles.

Flubadub And Jaudi

O'Farrill's chief competitor is Emilio Azcarraga, whose XEW-TV, in operation since mid-December of 1951, has the rights to La Hora de Jaudi Dudi—Howdy Doody to you. Dubbed-in sound lets the muchachos howl at Howdy like U.S. kids.

Marionettes are the most popular children's television shows in Mexico, the outstanding being the Rosete Aranda Marionettes, directed by Christian Caballero. Strongest competition comes from the new Teatro Cucurucho, directed by Gachita Amador.

Caballero is also producer and director of the extraordinarily successful Puppet Opera for adults, carefully edited 55-minute versions of popular operatic masterpieces.

'This Is Mexico'

Ramon Valdiosera, dress designer turned television producer, in Mexico Es Asi (XEW-TV), interprets Mexico's past and contemporary life.

Manolo Fabregas, descendant of the famous Virginia Fabregas (the Sarah Bernhardt of Mexico who died recently), and Fernando Soler (the Mexican Barrymore) carry on respective family traditions in rival comedy programs over XH-TV.

Mr. TV himself in Mexico is Guillermo Gonzalez Camarena, who established the first experimental station in 1946. His XHGC,—the city's third TV outlet—operates only four hours a day. His best program is Pronto Accion (Quick Action—a modest version of Strike It Rich) produced in collaboration with the Mexico City morning daily, Excelsior.

Maria Luisa Zea, a TV and radio singer, is big favorite down in Mexico.

The Warm Up

THE STARS GET BENEFIT OF A PRE-HEATED AUDIENCE

AN occupational hazard and one of the major causes of trauma among comedians is that dreary audience that refuses to laugh. It has long since become dogma in the radio-TV industry that a studio audience must be on hand to be insulted by the comics and cued by off screen claques so that the folks at home will know when to laugh.

And if a studio audience doesn't laugh? As a precaution against such disasters, most shows employ a pre-show audience warm up so that when airtime rolls around, the audience will be giddy enough to laugh at anything.

A Gag For A Kick-Off

The kingpin at audience priming is of course that old pro Bob Hope. Approximately a minute before air time, he reads from the script what is allegedly the first joke on the show. He then ceremoniously rips the first page off, crumples it in a ball, throws it on the floor and kicks it. Mr. Hope has this timed so well that the audience will be in gales of merriment at precisely the moment the show goes on the air.

Announcer Jack Lescoulie does the warm up on the Jackie Gleason Show. A typical warm up involves lining up Jackie, Audrey Meadows, Art Carney, June Taylor on stage, then going into the following spiel: "Ladies and gentlemen, I'd like to introduce you to the cast. Cast, meet the audience." With this, the cast runs out into the audience, shaking hands all around.

Big Payoff aide warming up audience.

The cast then rushes onstage just in time for the show.

Milton Frome, one of Milton Berle's alter egos, does the warm up on the Berle show. In line with the theory that a studio audience is several cuts lower in intelligence than the one at home, Frome goes out on the runway at the Center Theater wearing a preposterous toupee. He then rants at the audience, "If you don't laugh tonight, I'll tear my hair out," then, "I think I'll do it anyhow." With this he tears off the toupee. They are then ripe for Uncle Miltie.

Ed Sullivan does his own warm up, with Art Hannes, the announcer, filling in when Ed is on vacation. They begin with greetings from Lincoln-Mercury, tell the audience to relax, ask out-of-towners (most studio audiences are chiefly out-of-towners) to raise their hands and then advising them to "be sure to laugh when the cameras are turned on you. You don't want to disgrace your grandpa back home in the corner saloon. If he sees that you're not smiling, he'll think you're not having a good time."

The Bishop Sheen show has a problem that is peculiar to that show alone. The warm up is handled by one of two announcers, Fred Scott or Bill O'Toole. The audience is told to enjoy itself, applaud when it wishes and to remember, above all, that it is not in church.

Don't Outshine Caesar

Ed Herlihy (Your Show of Shows) is also on the spot. If he's too funny he'll cramp the styles of Caesar and Coca. He goes through the usual bits about putting an audience at its ease, tells them to take off their shoes, who's going to be on, and so forth.

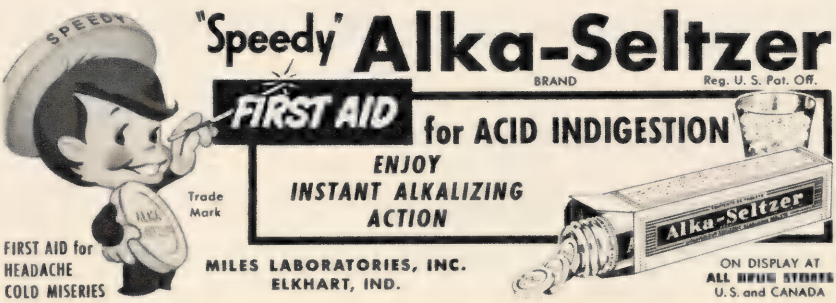
Walt Framer, producer of Strike It Rich and The Big Payoff, frequently does the warm up on those shows himself. Walt is not averse to a little flag-waving. On Strike It Rich, he leads off by saying, "We all struck it rich when we came to America," making his audience brim over with good feelings.

Eddie Fisher's audience is warmed up just at the sight of the boy. Consisting chiefly of teenagers, it bursts into squeals the moment Eddie puts in an appearance, approximately a minute before air time.

They've Got The Secret

Mark Goodson and Bill Todman, producer of What's My Line?, I've Got A Secret, and other shows, manage some 100 warm ups a year. The boys are loaded down with various routines to get the audience gay: "Do we have anyone in the audience enjoying their honeymoon here in New York? Stand up, please." (Blushing honeymooners stand). "All right, now, anybody here not enjoying their honeymoon?" (This brings the house down). "Okay, everybody, get comfortable. Men, take off your jackets if you want. Ladies—well, do the best you can."

Jane Froman has the best routine. While her announcer chats amiably with the audience, Jane, her dressing room very close to the stage, can be heard chirping away on that night's songs. And the way Miss Froman sings, by the time it's air time her audience is so warm, it's glowing.



Let your throat enjoy smooth smoking

There is no substitute for PALL MALL – the finest quality money can buy

Discover a smoothness, mildness and satisfaction no other cigarette offers you

PALL MALL is Longer. Compare PALL MALL with any short cigarette. See how mild PALL MALL's smoke becomes as it is filtered further through PALL MALL's traditionally fine, mellow tobaccos. PALL MALL—the cigarette that changed America's smoking habits—gives you a smoothness, mildness and satisfaction no other cigarette can offer you.

PALL MALL is Finer. Compare PALL MALL with any long cigarette. PALL MALL's fine tobaccos are the finest quality money can buy and fine tobacco is its own best filter for sweeter, smoother smoking. Moreover the better a cigarette is packed, the better it filters the smoke on the way to your throat. No other cigarette of any length can give you the pleasure you get from PALL MALL.

Chicago Dateline

TV's Week: Hot on the heels of NBC's cancelling two of its morning soapers (The Bennetts and Follow Your Heart) comes word that Hawkins Falls producer Ben Parks is bargaining for the right to move production of Three Steps To Heaven (NBC's remaining N. Y. soap opera) from Gotham to Chicago. Ben has the best reason in the world: cheap production costs here. Such a development might help build a reputation for Chicago as video's soap opera center.

Herbert

Meanwhile, WNBQ's Mr. Wizard (Don Herbert) is still promoting Chicago as a quality TV stronghold by virtue of his top ranking science show. Mr. Wizard is currently seen in 71 cities each week and expects to have 20 more markets on his list by the time he celebrates his third anniversary early in March.

Even though channel 11 is still collecting funds, one of its members, Chicago Musical College, is already lining up programs. Typical suggestion: the story of music's evolution over 2,000 years.

Advance Tips on Shows: WBKB execs aren't taking any chances on letting their Breakfast Club production get a cold reception so early in the morning. To insure an audience, channel 7 will precede Don McNeill's opus with a waker-upper each day at (ho-hum) 7 or 7:30 A.M. Lined up so far: The Prairie Ramblers and Betty Lou and Tommy Riggs (of radio fame).

Jimmy Spitalny finally wangled a 15-minute weekly spot from WGN-TV for his Home Of Charm opus. Show, which debuts at 1:45 P.M. Jan. 25, will feature a panel of advisers on charm and social problems.

It's rumored that DuMont's Music Show (which originates from Chicago's WGN-TV studios, but is not seen here) will return to channel 9 Jan. 27 in the 9 P.M. slot.

A Close-Up of newlyweds June and Howard Miller.

IN CHICAGO...

it's june this january

june valli, that is

MUSIC LOVERS, take note! An old tune, newly revamped, seems to be having a fine local revival. So many Windy City folk are chanting the praises of newcomer June Valli that the city could adopt the theme song, "It's June This January."

The pert brunette (5 feet, 102 pounds) has been given red-carpet treatment by Chicago's press and public. The arrival of this vocal star, who was featured on NBC-TV's Your Hit Parade all last season, is splendidly-timed. Popular music is enjoying a TV renaissance here. The rebirth which viewers liken to the heyday of Garroway-at-Large, Wayne King et al, has largely evolved from the late TV triumphs of June's new spouse, Howard Miller.

Deejay Howard's Friday night musicale recently made the grade and is now an NBC network feature. His latest show, Close-Up (WNBQ, 5:30 PM), on which June warbles daily, is also reaping hosannas.

If Chicagoans have taken June to their hearts, the esteemed Miss Valli (or, if you prefer, Mrs. Miller) has reciprocated. She considers Chicago, through her marriage to Howard, a new home.

It was while on a marathon theatrical junket last year that she met the glib and breezy disk jockey. Howard had long pegged June as his favorite warbler and had yearned to see her. He arrived at a Chicago recording party for June with two exotic orchids as date-bait, and it worked. He escorted her home. Then, with typical suavity, Howard said to her, "I'll likely end up marrying you."

June smiled, forgot the remark. But some weeks later, Howard flew to New York where June was making guest appearances and began a romantic siege. Their courtship wound up in a storybook wedding last month at Chicago's Little Country Church in the City.

It was June's first marriage; Howard's third. The pair are confident of future marital bliss—despite the obstacles that

5 4 BOXING—New York
Vince Martinez vs. Rocky Casillo, welterweights, 10 rounds.

JIMMY POWERS' RATING

	Rated	W	L	KO's
Martinez	14	32	3	18
Casillo	not	18	4	10

This should be a whale of a fight. Their styles blend to a fan's delight, boxer vs. slugger. Martinez is a stand-up boxer, with a sting in both mitts. Vince has the equipment to be a standout, but seems to lack the drive in the bouts that would push him into big-time opposition. Perhaps this may be to his advantage. We must consider that he is still a youngster with not too much experience. Casillo is a carbon of another Rocky—Graziano. The Blue Island contender wings punches instead of snapping them. He is wide open for all counters. But he too can punch a bit. It will be a tough fight for Martinez.

JIMMY POWERS' RATING

	Rated	W	L	D	KO's
Olson	Champion	54	5	0	25
Rindone	Not	33	10	3	14

This is the first outing since Olson became undisputed middleweight champion. It's an over-the-weight match, which means Rindone must come in over the 160-pound mark. It's pretty hard picking against Olson, no matter whom he fights.

3:00 (5) [4] Hall of Fame—Drama: King Richard II

MAURICE EVANS stars in Shakespeare's play, which has been adapted for TV. Following are the acts as they will appear.

Maurice Evans

ACT I

As the play opens Henry Bolingbroke, son of John of Gaunt and Thomas Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, appear before King Richard to charge each other with treason. After hearing them, Richard sends them into exile. Needing gold to carry on a war in Ireland, Richard mortgages the nation's revenues. His uncle, the aged John of Gaunt, dies, and Richard promptly seizes his entire estate, which rightly should go to Gaunt's son, the exiled Bolingbroke. While Richard is in Ireland, the disaffected nobles learn that Bolingbroke plans to return with a force of 3,000.

ACT II

Bolingbroke welcomes the nobles who rally to his side. Richard, returning from Ireland, learns of this betrayal. He meets with Bolingbroke who pleads that all he desires is that his sentence of banishment be repealed and inheritance restored. Powerless, Richard yields.

ACT III

It is contrived that Richard shall offer to abdicate. Upon Richard's abdication, Bolingbroke orders Richard held and his Queen banished. At the Castle of Pomfret Richard is murdered with the connivance of the new king.

Cast

King Richard ..... Maurice Evans
Bolingbroke ..... Kent Smith
Gaunt ..... Frederic Worlock

5 [4] Kukla, Fran, And Ollie
The Kuklapolitans present scenes from Shakespeare. It is Oliver J. Dragon's wish to set the mood for production of "King Richard II," which follows the Kuklapolitans today. It's expected that Ollie will portray the melancholy Dane, but nothing is definite, as there has been controversy within the company as to who will play what. However, it is Beulah Witch's desire to enact the role of Lady MacBeth. It's expected that Kukla will interpret the role of Puck. (Guests invited. Write Guest Relations, WNBQ, Chicago).

Why Hawks are not on TV . . .

LAST WEEK, because of heavy mail inquiries, we promised to bring you the full story of why the Chicago Black Hawk hockey games were not televised this season . . . Well, here are the facts—only the facts, sir!

The Hawks are not on television because of an energetic TV salesman!

Last fall, prior to the start of the hockey season, TV packager Jack Page was given some time by a local TV station to produce a sponsor for the Black Hawks. When Page walked into the station two weeks later, armed with a fat contract to televise all Sunday night home games, he discovered his time slot had been sold by a station salesman to an automotive dealer for movies—only the night before! Thus Chicagoans missed seeing hockey by the meager margin of 12 hours.

Griffin

Then shortly after the New Year, Page labored tenaciously with the Malcolm-Howard Agency to televise hockey starting with the Jan. 17th tilt in the Chicago Stadium. Again their efforts were stymied. Reason: WCFL manager Marty Hogan had wisely obtained exclusive radio rights, with Bob Elson broadcasting, on the basis that none of the games would be on TV.

Looks like we'll have to wait until next year.

Cuffnotes: After a five-month blackout in Chicago, Wayne Griffin's Rainbo Wrestling Show can be seen again, Wednesday nights, WBKB, 9 to 10 PM . . . Soccer has returned.

5 DENNIS DAY—Comedy
Charlie is jealous of the attentions paid by Dennis's grandfather to Lavinia. Ida Moore as Lavinia, and Dennis plays his grandfather. Sponsored by RCA Victor.

9 BOXING—Brooklyn
Rex Layne vs. Tom Jackson, heavyweights, 10 rounds.

JIMMY POWERS' RATING:

	Rated	W	L	D	KO's
Layne	11	40	6	2	28
Jackson	not	18	1	0	7

Layne at one time looked like another Dempsey, but this dream soon faded. Jackson is a local boy with limited experience. I haven't much of a line on Jackson, so must rely on my television set for a scouting report. Matchmaker Teddy Brenner generally comes up with an upset, so I'll sit back and watch. (You can get more fun from these fights by scoring them with the TV GUIDE "scorekeeper." Read about it on page A-4.)

JIMMY POWERS' RATING:

	Rated	W	L	D	KO's
Moore	Champ	113	19	5	73
Maxim	2	79	20	4	21

This title fight for the 175-crown is the third meeting of this pair. Moore won the title from Maxim and successfully defended it. These are about the two most experienced boxers in the ring today. They know every trick and move in the business. Every move is made with reason. I liked Moore in their two previous bouts, and there isn't any reason why I should change here. If rained out, it will be Holly Mims vs. Billy Kilgore from Coral Gables Auditorium.

TV GUIDE
SINGER ALBUM

He Plays by EYE

How a Guitarist Creates Mood Music For Danger

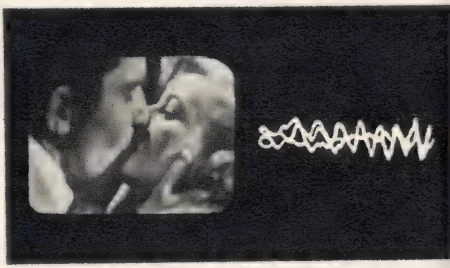
TONY MOTTOLA and his guitar provide the entire background music for the CBS' Danger series—an even more difficult feat than playing the Third Man Theme on the zither. He finds musical notes that will amplify moods that range from violent rage to sweet romance.

Mottola follows the action of the play with the aid of a monitor, on which the scenes being telecast can be viewed, and with a special copy of the script on which he has noted his planned musical phrasings.

An oscilloscope, which translates electronic currents into light, provides a visual pattern of his music. In the picture series shown, Mottola's guitar throbs loudly as James Broderick approaches Constance Ford, becomes muted, fades to an undertone.

Chords underscore suppressed emotion.

Music is hushed as performers embrace.



Soft notes are heard as their lips meet.

Mottola watches the action on monitor and provides right musical background.

ROBERT Q ON HIS OWN

HE SEEKS TV STARDOM WITH GODFREY'S BLESSING

ROBERT Q. LEWIS is another performer closely associated with the Arthur Godfrey clan who has departed the fold. But unlike Julius La Rosa, Archie Bleyer and others whom Godfrey fired, Robert Q. asked for and was granted his release.

It occurred long before the La Rosa-Bleyer blow-off. Lewis, with an opportunity to star on his own show on CBS-TV five afternoons a week, explained to Godfrey that this would mean being freed as fill-in emcee whenever Godfrey took a vacation from his morning show. Arthur gave his okay. Robert Q. withheld for two months the news so that no one would associate his leaving with the La Rosa-Bleyer affair.

Accolade: Godfrey turning over his earphones to Robert Q. Lewis.

Lewis appearing with Frank Parker and Marion Marlowe while substituting for Godfrey.

Seven Year Pitch

If Lewis, a substitute for Godfrey the last seven years, had his own differences with Arthur, he isn't talking about them. "I liked being Arthur's replacement," he said. "I'm very grateful to him for allowing me to grow at the same time he was growing. Anytime he ever wants me for anything, I'll be glad to cooperate."

According to Robert Q., Godfrey has a keen sense of showmanship. "He's a great teacher," Bob said. "I remember when he was recuperating on his farm from that hip operation last summer. He asked me to come down for a visit because he wanted to talk over the morning show.

"While I was there, we talked for two hours about my work on the program. Arthur analyzed everything I had done, pointing out how I could improve my performance. He even took the time to play back some kinescopes of the show, saying 'There—that's what I mean.' he told me."

It's no secret that Godfrey continued to direct his "friends" even from his hospital bed immediately after the operation. This he did by watching the programs on a TV receiver and phoning the director in the studio control room in New York. Robert Q. was on the receiving end of some of this long-distance direction. While it might have been bothersome, Bob also recalls that some was kindly.

"I remember one morning when I was going crazy trying to get a laugh. Then somebody handed me a note from Will Roland, our producer. Arthur had phoned in from the hospital to tell Will, 'Bob's trying too hard. Tell him not to worry."

Robert Q., who had a yen for show business even when he was in grammar school, seeks new heights this season. He'll control the rights to the new show and CBS has asked him to do a Saturday morning program on radio that may be simulcast for TV.

The Beginning Was No Joke

Bob traces his zeal to become a performer to the fact that he suffered from asthma as a child.

"I could never play ball with the other kids on my block because I wasn't allowed to do anything strenuous," Bob explained. "I decided the only way to 'belong' was to try to excel at something else, such as being funny. I guess when the kids laughed at my jokes and accepted me, I decided performing was my meat."

He recalls that when he was still in knee-pants he talked his father into taking him to Keith's 81st Street Theater in upper Manhattan each Sunday to watch vaudeville. He also cut Sunday school classes as often as he could to appear on the Horn & Hardart's Children's Hour, then a radio program and now a top-rated local Eastern TV show.

Throughout high school and then at the University of Michigan he participated in dramatics.

Lewis left Michigan at the end of his junior year to join the staff of WTRY, radio station in Troy, N. Y. He knew he would be drafted soon, and wanted to get a start in the business, to have something to return to after the war. He tried to enlist in the Army but was rejected, not because of his asthma but because of faulty vision. He appealed and was accepted for limited service.

V.P.—Very Persnickety

While staging a Christmas show at his Army camp, Lewis suffered another asthma attack that led to his discharge from service. He then joined WNEW, New York's biggest independent radio station, as a disc jockey, following that with a stint at WEAF (now WNBC, NBC's radio flagship in New York).

He enjoyed the distinction there of being fired by the same NBC vice-president with whom Fred Allen was continually bickering. As Bob explained it, "I wrote a show dealing with the problems encountered by a young performer when he tries to go through network channels to see a vice-president. I guess I kidded the veepees too much."

Name's Never Been The Same

The question most often tossed at Lewis by his fans is, "How come that middle initial?" One morning at WNEW, during his disc jockey program, he was thinking for no reason of "Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle," the famous radio character. "When I signed off," he said, "I declared—'This is Robert Q. Lewis. I don't know why but that got lots of good reaction."

Lewis' first TV job was as Godfrey's replacement, and he's headed his own programs at various times on both radio and TV. Last year he was signed by the Goodson-Todman organization to emcee The Name's the Same, which he will continue.

Branching out, he played some of the leading night clubs and toured the stock circuit during the summer in the title role of "Charley's Aunt."

Lewis has only one other ambition: to re-do the Harold Lloyd feature movies, such as "The Freshman" and "The Milkman." To date, he has been unable to obtain the rights, which are still controlled by Lloyd.

'COLORGENIC'S' THE WORD

WITH AN EYE ON COLOR TV NBC LOOKS FOR BEAUTY

Arlene Dahl, right, a judge, with Holly Carroll, Peggy Ray and Claudia Hall.

WITH color television a leading topic around the networks, NBC issued a clarion call, not to be confused with a wolf call, for beauties for a "Colorgenic" contest. The purpose: to choose girls who would be naturals for the new medium. More than 400 responded. Judges, including Actress Arlene Dahl, selected winners with the aid of color chart tests (opposite). The winners, Carol Toby, Jeanne Carmen, Trez Harden, Kate Conroy, Penny Duncan, Annette English, Carol Wynne and Gale McQuire, appeared on a Bob Hope telecast.

Sid and Imogene: no one can touch them.

Your Show Of Shows

THE Eighth Wonder of the World, Show Business Division, continues to be Max Liebman's Your Show of Shows, a three-a-month, 90-minute review which should have collapsed of its own weight years ago but is apparently as durable as Old Man River himself. Chief assets, of course, are still Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca, two of TV's brightest (and sturdiest) stars, ably abetted by Carl Reiner and Howie Morris.

Now in its fifth season, Show of Shows has changed little from its original concept: a musical review held together by the undeniable talents of Caesar and Coca. By its very nature, however, the show is beginning to pall. It lacks today the freshness it once had in such great abundance and suffers somewhat from a tendency to repeat sketches and numbers. This is understandable, but it doesn't prevent the feeling that the show is beginning to get old hat. One great sketch in the course of an hour and a half isn't enough to leave the impression that the entire show itself was great—and it is not every week these days that they are coming up with even one standout.

What Show of Shows could well use is a story line, a thread of plot which might tend to hold the entire 90 minutes together. But even as it stands, it is well worth the effort to catch Caesar and Coca in one of their frequent flights into sheer comic greatness. Given the material (which is getting harder and harder to come by), there is no one in their field who can touch them.

Les Paul and Mary Ford

Les and Mary: little time, lots of harmony.

LES PAUL and Mary Ford, whose success in the recording field has been something of a phenomenon during the past few years, have edged quietly into TV with a pleasant if rather meaningless little "show" which is about as commercial as it's possible to get.

Five minutes in length and spotted at odd hours of the day and night on various stations around the country, the show is hardly calculated to build a steady audience for itself. For one thing, it's too hard to find. For another, it's over almost as soon as it starts. Paul and his wife get off two quick songs, the sponsor is in for two quick messages and that's it.

Thus limited in time, the two stars attack it from a homey standpoint, playing themselves with an easy casualness that belies the careful production which has gone into the films. Paul's prowess with the guitar is very much in evidence, and his wife's voice has a kind of full-throated quietness which is refreshing in these times of brash and brassy female singers. They complement each other perfectly.

The five-minute spot, however, is still the stickler. It's like trying to find a lone daisy in a rose garden.—D. J.

FINE TUNING

By OLLIE CRAWFORD

KREMLIN orders Russian ad men to use jingles. We can't wait to hear: "Put Malenkov's herrings on your list and be a splendid Communist."

Or: "Malenkov's borscht you have to eat, but from its taste it can't be beet."

If ad men are the same everywhere, Russians will hear: "When your children kick and scrim, fill them up with sour crim." And: "Buy liquid kumquats by the gallon, or you'll be dead as Marshal Stalin." Or: "Stock up on parsnips, let them cheerya, or pack your bags for old Siberia."

As the Reds say: "Collective housing's cold and damp, but it's better than a labor camp."

The best Red jingle so far goes: "Caviar red, caviar black, buy some today or get shot in the back; Caviar black, caviar red, buy some today or get shot in the head."

Then there's this one: "Malenkov's meatballs make him wealthy, eat them if you would stay healthy."

TV GUIDE

It's so nice to have a Guide around the house

Crystal ball gazing may be one way to determine who is guesting on "The Comedy Hour" or "Toast of the Town" on Sunday night. But more than 2,000,000 families prefer to rely on TV GUIDE to know what's happening on television before it takes place.

Many of these TV GUIDE families are finding it definitely more convenient —and economical too—to subscribe.
